

Finding My Way:
A Teen's Guide to Living with a Parent
Who has Experienced Trauma

A first-of-its-kind, interactive book for teens which addresses key issues in dealing with a parent who has experienced trauma

“PURE GOLD for the lucky kids that will benefit from it!”

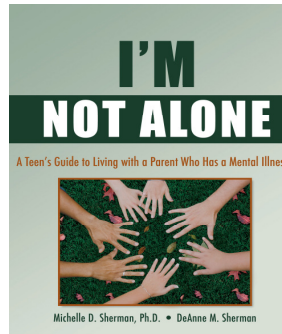

Chris Elliott, M.Ed.

“An extremely practical, compelling guide which embodies extensive research and clinical wisdom....written from the heart as a gift to families struggling with the aftermath of trauma.”

Lt. Commander Tim Reimann, United States Navy Reserve

7 X 9” • Paperback • $20.00

I'm Not Alone:
A Teen's Guide to Living with a Parent
Who has a Mental Illness

A unique, interactive book for teens whose parent has schizophrenia, depression or bipolar disorder

“A terrific book...clear and respectful, but challenging...creates a partnership with the reader”

Lisa Dixon, M.D., M.P.H

“Thorough, supportive, engaging, and right on target for teens”

Nancy Petree, NAMI Family to Family teacher.

7 X 9” • Paperback • $20.00

These books help teens to:

* Understand mental illness and common reactions to trauma

* Learn coping skills

* Sort through complex feelings

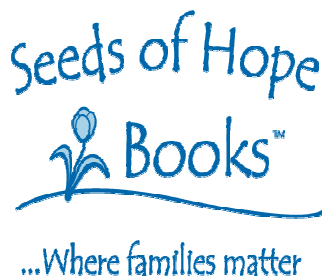

* Deal with their friends

* Identify resources and find hope

Michelle D. Sherman, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist and the Director of the Family Mental Health Program at the Oklahoma City Veterans Affairs Medical Center; she is also the co-chair of the Family Studies Team of the South Central Mental Illness Research, Education and Clinical Center (MIRECC) and an adjunct associate professor at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center.

DeAnne Sherman, Michelle's mother, is a teacher with over 40 years of experience educating, mentoring, and empowering teenagers.

For more information and to order:

www.seedsofhopebooks.com

or

(800) 901-3480

Discounts available for large orders

Another family resource created by Dr. Sherman:

The SAFE Program

Available free for download at:

w3.ouhsc.edu/safeprogram